

Service trip volunteers seek support

by Jeanne Kolker

Preparations for the spring service trips are under way. The first trip is to Hesed House, and the next is to Appalachia. Both groups are currently sponsoring various fund-raisers to help cover the cost of the trips.

This year, 17 students will be traveling to Harlan County, Ky., from April 8-15 to provide services for the poor. The students will do home visits, tutor children, repair houses, clean a local church for Holy Week services, volunteer in the Catholic elementary school and prepare and deliver food baskets to needy families for Easter.

The other trip is to Hesed House in Aurora, Ill., and involves nine students who will be helping the homeless. The students will assist in a meal at a soup kitchen, food pantry, emergency shelter, clothes closet, drop-in center and the transitional living community. This trip is over spring break, March 5-11.

In order to participate in these trips, students need to raise money to cover their expenses. The groups are sponsoring many fund-raisers to cover the trips and also to make a contribution to the Inter-faith Center and Hesed House, with whom they will be working.

Each individual student sends out letters of request to faculty, staff, family, friends and past volunteers who have graduated. There will also be collections taken at Clarke's Sunday liturgies, a bake sale March 14 and a pop can collection in the residence halls and Catherine Byrne Hall.

For Valentine's Day, the groups sponsored candy-grams, which students could buy to be sent to other students or faculty for 50 cents.

Another fund-raiser for both groups is a dance to be held February 25 from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the atrium. Admission will be $2 and music will be provided by Kevin Kantorski.

Hesed House volunteers are also taking up a collection of toiletries to take to the residents. The items requested are deodorant, toothpaste, toothbrushes and combs. These items may be dropped off in the chapel or the campus ministry offices.

The students participating in the service trip to Appalachia are: freshmen Heather Day, and Louis Stroschein Jr.; sophomores Mardi Arends, Jennifer Carolan, Peggy Gaul, Suzanne Huxel, Susan Kanne, Janet Masters and Adam Pentel; juniors Erin Bowditch, Tonya Bruggeman, Juli Dunne (student leader), Jill Kreinbring and Peter Meis; seniors Theresa Imbus and Alisa Tomko and Campus Ministry directors Michelle Watters and S. Kathy Carr, BVM.

The volunteers for the third trip to Hesed House include: sophomores Wendy Crawford, Angie Dolan, Jodi Kilburg (student leader), and Gregg Tranowski; juniors Jon Lang, Anne Marzullo, and Colleen McEneaney; seniors Justin Carney and Julie Modde and Campus Ministry/Resident Director Michelle Watters.

'Uninvited' invited to Clarke

by Jane Schueller

You are invited to join the "Uninvited" on March 18 at 8 p.m. in the Clarke Union.

The "Uninvited" is a four member local band that is slowly rising to the top. This acoustically-driven band's music is categorized as "somewhere between the Gin Blossoms and the BoDeans."

They mix cover material with original material. Aside from the Gin Blossoms and BoDeans, they play Toad the Wet Sprocket, Hootie and the Blowfish, U2, Live and songs from many other popular bands. They are also open to new ideas and will attempt to play any requested song.

The "Uninvited" have been together for about two years. The lead singer and rhythm guitarist, Steve Davis, and bass guitarist, Kerry Miller played together in the rock 'n' roll band "Itchy Scratchy."

After the band broke up, Davis and Miller had their own ideas. They were set on doing original music. They hooked up with lead guitarist Rick Hefel, who Davis had played with almost 10 years ago, and named themselves the "Uninvited." Six drummers later, Brent Graham joined the group.

The "Uninvited" have recently released their debut album Our Two Cents. When questions were asked concerning the meaning of the title, Davis replied, "It is what we have to offer. We hope everyone likes it."

The album is available on cassette tape or compact disc and is selling very well. It can be purchased at Co-op Records on Wacker Drive in Dubuque, and is also available at their shows.

The album is enjoying a favorable response. Their original song "Black and White" has been the most requested song on K-LYV 105.3's "Top Nine at Nine" for about two weeks running. The album is also getting air play on 92.9 KAT FM.

The band has opened for various groups. Last month, they opened for the Murmurs and Firehouse during WinterFest at the Dubuque Fairgrounds. They also have opened for REO Speedwagon, Martin Page, as well as John Cafferty and the Beaver Brown Band. Other opening opportunities are being offered.

Coming up, the band will be attending a showcase in New York City, where they will perform their music for several record companies.

For the "Uninvited," playing in the band is just an enjoyable hobby after a long work week.

Davis is an X-ray technician at the Lancaster Hospital in Lancaster, Wisc. Hefel is a caregiver at the Area Residential Care group home. Graham is employed at the Toys Collector Club in Dyersville, Iowa. Lastly, there's Miller, a couch potato who spends time with his wife. Despite the shuffling of schedules, the band is doing very well with hopes of producing another album sometime down the road.

"We love to play in bars, but it is more enjoyable to play for college students. We are very excited about bringing our music to Clarke," said Davis. It should be a great show, so mark your calendar for March 18th!

Other opportunities to see the "Uninvited" include: Feb. 17 & 18 at Mr. Hyde's in East Dubuque, Ill., Feb. 24 at the Great River Roadhouse in Balltown, Feb. 25 at the Main Entrance in Dyersville and on Mar. 25 at the Silver Dollar Cantina in Dubuque.

Electronic Imaging Laboratory opens in Eliza Kelly

by Jane Schueller

The Communications and Arts Lab (CAL), also called Electronic Imaging Studio, has recently been added to Clarke College. The lab is located on the third floor of Eliza Kelly, across from the communication and art offices. It is in a spacious, convenient room allowing easy access for both the communication and art departments.

When the computers arrived, it was difficult to find a separate room designed for a lab. The art department was generous and gave up their multimedia classroom/print shop for the installation of the Electronic Studio. In return the school has renovated the whole lab.

The CAL meets the needs of both the communication and art departments. The lab equipment consists of three Macintosh and three IBM computers. It also includes a scanner, a laser printer and a portable teacher's station.

The CAL is a designated use lab only. The lab will be used for graphics, communication problems, classroom assignments, and the production of the Catalyst. It is restricted to students completing these problems and/or assignments. It is not a lab for writing term papers, etc. It will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. to students who require it for a class.

This wonderful lab is a result of a Title III grant written by Brother John Wozniak, vice president for academic affairs. The purpose of this grant is to strengthen technology and to aid academic excellence. Aside from the CAL, the funding also included a Macintosh Classroom consisting of 25 new Macintosh computers, which is located on the top floor of the library in the old faculty lounge.

The 'Uninvited,' a four-man local group shown here in a recent promotional photo, will appear at Clarke on March 18 in the Union. The band has opened for such performers as REO Speedwagon and Martin Page.

Hypnotist Winters proves a success

by Hiro Matsuo

On February 12, Clarke welcomed hypnotist Frederick Winters to Jansen Music Hall. Winters has been at Clarke before and was glad to be asked to perform again.

Winters performs hypnosis by using mainly voice only. He was inspired by watching a hypnotist in 1979 at the age of 19. After becoming his friend, he started to learn the tricks of the trade.

By 1983, he was starting to perform his own shows. Today, he currently performs around 150 shows a year.

According to Winters hypnosis is a "power of suggestion," as well as having psychological effects. Winters felt that Clarke students tended to "respond more than others."

Gregg Tranowski, sophomore, was hypnotized by Winters last year and also participated in the show this year. He said that he was deeper in his hypnotic state compared to last year. Tranowski was aware of being hypnotized during the whole show, but said he still had a great time and hopes to be hypnotized in the near future.

"I was scared when I was on stage because I wasn't sure what I was going to be asked to do," said Michael Klongpayabal, sophomore. He also said that he remembered everything that happened when on stage, but he was in an extremely relaxed state.

Katie DeMuth, sophomore, said, "I don't remember anything that I was doing." According to Winters she was quite a bit "deeper than the others."

This proved true for a few others who participated in the show, but many remembered everything that had happened.

Many students felt that Winters was incredible at hypnotizing people. When asked why he didn't become a full-time hypnotherapist, Winters said that at one time he was, but his business was too busy. He felt he really didn't want this, so he decided that performing hypnosis shows was better than being a hypnotherapist only.

"I really like to hypnotize audiences more than individuals on stage," said Winters. He feels that to see actions from an audience is a little bit weirder than only the people on stage. The people in the audience aren't as likely to fake their actions.

According to Winters only if people are willing to do something that he says will they do it. He cannot ask people to do something that they don't want to because they will not react. Therefore people need not worry that they will be asked to do something totally outrageous and actually perform it on stage.

Winters said the audience was great and he thanks anyone who participated in the show. Sometimes there's more to the mind than meets the eye.

Questions? Call Barb Bodish

by Tony Vasquez

Students that have disputes concerning parking tickets should contact Barb Bodish, secretary of the physical plant and telecommunications system administrator, within five days of the issued ticket at extension 6326.

As a reminder, students will be ticketed for parking against the Catherine Byrne Hall guardrail.

If any student has a problem concerning telephone passwords or has faulty telephone equipment, Bodish can be contacted at extension 6166. Students need to be specific with their telephone problems.

If and when an appointment is made, students should bring their telephone equipment, including the basecord, to the Keller Computer Center mainframe room. Bodish would like to have students bring their identification cards also.

To receive quicker responses when leaving a message, students should make sure that they identify who they are and what their problem is.

Bodish can be contacted at either of these extensions from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday-Friday.

Glacier Park seeks workers

College students from across the country are being sought for summer jobs at one of the nation's most spectacular national parks.

Glacier National Park, located in the northwest corner of Montana, is best known for its rugged mountain wilderness and its historic lodges. Glacier Park, Inc. is looking for students to fill more than 900 summer jobs in all segments of the hotel and hospitality areas.

Jobs include a large variety of hotel positions such as hotel front desk, room attendants, cooks, wait persons and bus drivers. Many students also participate in the guest entertainment, which includes American Cabaret Theatre, another Glacier Park tradition. Employees are needed this year from mid-May to early October. The highest demand is for employees who can work through late September and early October. Internships are available for hotel/restaurant, culinary arts, travel/tourism, accounting majors and movie and theatre.

The seven hotels and lodges and the famous red vintage tour coaches operate throughout the 1.4 million acres of Glacier National Park. Since the early 1900s, it has been a tradition for college students from across the country to work at the park while enjoying a number of outdoor activities such as hiking, riding, and fishing in one of the nation's last examples of pristine wilderness.

According to Dale Scott, president of Glacier Park, Inc., the opportunity to work at Glacier affords students educational opportunities in more ways than one.

"You can get much needed job-related experience in a variety of areas, which can help with a career later on," says Scott. "But you can also get life experience education by working in spectacular natural surroundings and through developing a camaraderie with co-workers who come from around the world."

Scott says many of the students also use the employment center at Glacier as an opportunity to save money for school.

For details on jobs and salaries call Glacier Park, Inc., at (602) 207-2620, or write Glacier Park, Inc., Dial Tower, Phoenix, AZ. 85077-0924.

Davenport heads Clarke baseball

by Tony Vasquez

As Clarke's fifth season of baseball approaches, Mike Davenport will be the college's fourth head coach as he assumes those duties for the 1995 season.

The coaching change was made in order to improve the baseball and basketball programs. "I think Clarke bettered both programs by giving baseball and basketball separate head coaches," said Davenport.

Jeff Fore, last year's head baseball and basketball coach, will concentrate solely on basketball.

Davenport, 24, comes from Dekalb, Ill. He was an assistant for two years at Clarke, serving one year under Mike Duenser and the other under Fore.

"I think the coaching change was a good move because baseball will be his primary concern. We now won't have a coach who has to worry about another sport other than baseball," said junior Dan Scropos.

"I think the baseball program will benefit with a single full-time head coach. Davenport's coaching experience should bring success to the program," said senior Shane Farrell.

On March 11, 1994, Davenport was told that the head coaching job was going to be his for the 1995 season. Other than the need for separate coaches, Davenport also thinks that he earned the job. "I think that I got the head baseball coaching job because I did a decent job as an assistant for two years," said Davenport.

One of Davenport's goals for the upcoming season is to have the Crusaders contend for the Midwest Classic Conference title, but he also has future goals as well. "I'd like to build one of those stronger baseball programs at the NAIA-NCAA Division III levels," said Davenport.

In order to do that, he will have to rely on incoming recruits. Last year's team lost seven players, with the main loss being Cincinnati Red draft pick, Scott Savary. For his first year of recruiting, Davenport brought in 15 new players. Most of those 15 players are with pitchers or infielders.

The main areas that Davenport recruits in are Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin. "It seems to be more likely for us to get players from the Tri-State area, so that's why we concentrate our recruiting in those areas," said Davenport.

As far as types of players he wants to recruit to Clarke, Davenport said quality students as well as baseball players. He also said that he wants his players to have a little more discipline as far as time management skills in academic and baseball.

With the addition of the Robert and Ruth Kehl Recreation Center, the baseball and softball teams have been able to use the two batting cages and three pitching mounds in the basement of the facility year-round.

In addition, Davenport says that the baseball program has also benefited with the use of the large basketball court level for defensive and fundamental practices. The jogging track above the basketball court has been used for conditioning.

"I think the new complex is helping the baseball program because previous facilities of the past were inadequate for college baseball. It was an inconvenience traveling from high school to high school to practice," said Davenport.

Since the beginning of the second semester, Davenport has had the baseball team practice various times at 5:30 a.m. on some days while others start at 9 p.m. because the center has had other sport programs occupying it.

Other than two years of coaching at Clarke, Davenport has also coached American Legion baseball and worked at some baseball camps. Davenport's biggest influence in coaching came from Tom Barnard, his former junior college coach of two years at Kishwaukee Community College in Malta, Ill.

Davenport played four years of college baseball, with two at Kishwaukee and the other two at Clarke. During his two years at Clarke, Davenport was the team's two-time Most Valuable Player, two-time All-Midwest Classic Conference selection, an All-Academic and an All-District 15 selection and a top 20 hitter in the nation his junior year with a .409 batting average. He graduated in December 1992 with a double major in business administration and sports management.

Former Clarke teammate Sam Knaack and Casey Bryant will serve as assistant coaches.

"I'm grateful that Clarke gave me the chance to be head coach, especially at such a young age. I hope to make the baseball program at Clarke very successful," said Davenport.

Squad ready for new season

by Tony Vasquez

The Clarke College baseball team will feature a new head coach and several new players as the 1995 season opener becomes less than a month and a half away.

Former player and two year assistant Mike Davenport takes over as head coach. His assistants are former Clarke catcher Sam Knaack and Casey Bryant.

Last year's team had a record of 17 and 21 and placed fifth in the Midwest Classic Conference. Coach Davenport is looking for improvement.

"My goal is not only to just make the playoffs but also to contend for the conference title," said Davenport.

"I think that with the addition of the new practice facilities and the new players on this year's team, we should have a quality squad and make the playoffs for the first time in school history," said pitcher Jason Fahrlander, sophomore.

This year's squad has a total of 27 players and 15 of them are either transfers or freshmen. Of the 27 players, nine are freshmen, three are sophomores, ten are juniors and five are seniors.

"In the past, we haven't been able to compete with teams like Grand View, Loras and St. Ambrose. With the new talent we have for this year's team, I think we'll finally be able to break through," said outfielder Dan Scropos, junior.

"Being a transfer, I feel like the upper classmen on the team have made me and other newcomers feel welcomed. I'm excited about the season because I think we'll have a competitive team," said pitcher Mike Rios, sophomore.

Of the seven departed players from last year's team, Davenport said Cincinnati Red draft pick Scott Savary will be the biggest loss. Savary had team highs with a .427 batting average, 34 runs batted in, five triples and 14 stolen bases.

But on the other hand, pitcher and team co-captain senior Brock Helms, who was honorable mention all-conference last season, will be returning. Helms had a 4 and 6 record with a team leading 3.72 earned run average.

Also returning will be co-captain senior Jason Boersma, who had a .276 batting average with 22 runs batted in and a team high nine doubles; sophomore Chad Coakly, who batted .298; and Scropos, who batted .288 with 21 runs batted in and five homeruns last year.

According to Davenport, strengths for this year's team will be its pitching staff and strong offensive hitting up and down the line-up.

The Crusaders officially began preparing for the upcoming season on January 23 with practice in the Kehl Center. The actual season begins with a trip to the MetroDome in Minneapolis on March 6-10.

Clarke will play teams such as Mount Marty, St. Olaf, St. Mary's and Concordia colleges in the Dome.

Other than playing in the MetroDome, the Crusaders will also play in the Loras Classic Tournament and the Wartburg Tournament this year.

Some first time opponents for the Clarke baseball program this year will be North Central College, Robert Morris College, Rockford College, Upper Iowa University and Wartburg College.

Clarke's first Midwest Classic Conference game will be in Davenport on April 4 against St. Ambrose University. The season ends in Des Moines against Grand View College on May 6. On May 11-14, the Midwest Classic Conference begins in Waterloo. The top four teams in the conference will be in that tournament.

One scheduling change comes on March 19, when Clarke is supposed to play Eureka College. Instead, the Crusaders will play Upper Iowa University on March 18.

All home games are played at Hempstead High School.

Independence

by Evan Siegle
The Clarke College production of Independence, by Lee Blessing, opens Thursday, Feb. 16 and ran through Saturday, Feb. 19, in the Terence J. Theatre. It was about a mother and three children, which were growing up.

The mother, Evelyn Briggs, is played by alumna Andrea Briggs. She graduated from Clarke in 1974.

Her undergraduate years Briggs played roles in plays such as, Attic, The Plough and the Stars, Summer Night's Dream. In her senior year, she played a mother who is mentally unstable and insecure. Her husband left her and the children are afraid of being left alone. She feared someone there physically.

The oldest daughter of the family is Kess Briggs. She was played by Theresa Hegler. Kess was a successful and proud professor, who moved to Minnesota because she liked her family lifestyle, so she should also be pointed out that she is a homosexual.

The second oldest daughter is Briggs. Junior Heather Hult played this role. Jo lived at home very parallel with her mom. She is caring, concerned and always with her mother. She had stress of her boyfriend had left her and
